Holy Spirit compels us to proclaim Christ

I would donate a pile of money to a worthy cause for the privilege to have been a fly on the wall in the Upper Room on the morning of Pentecost! What happened up there? None of the eyewitnesses present passed down a written record for us to know.

To gain insight into the transforming nature of the Holy Spirit, however, we can ponder the change wrought in the apostles through the Pentecost experience. Before they enter the Upper Room, the followers of Jesus are afraid, not sure what to do next, and are silent about their relationship with the risen Christ. Anointed in the power of the Holy Spirit through wind and flame, they emerge into the streets of Jerusalem, united, courageous and articulate in their proclamation of the crucified and risen Jesus Christ as Lord and Messiah.

In reflecting on the Pentecost experience as the birth and foundation of the church, we clearly see how the Holy Spirit forms and energizes the evangelizing mission given to us by Christ himself. Only after the Paraclete's anointing can Simon Peter, who denied even knowing Jesus on Holy Thursday night, look his killers in the eye and proclaim the resurrection to them, not in a condemnatory tone but an invitational one.

So magnetic was Peter's evangelizing message that morning that 3,000 people were baptized in an explosion of the Holy Spirit. This Spirit of God helped the early church make sense of its experience of Christ and gave it the courage to profess it publically. We can learn how to better evangelize the world today by reflecting on the Pentecost experience which ignited the great saving mission of the church. One key reason for the extraordinary growth of the early Christian community was its unity.

The first believers gathered around the apostles, celebrated the Eucharist, shared their possessions in common, prayed over the sick, assembled in the temple to praise God, in all things, genuinely loving each other. Paul and Peter may have debated over whether Gentiles had first to become Jews before they could become followers of Jesus, but a deep unity, centered on belief in Jesus as Messiah and Christ and the saving power of his Gospel message, bound the church together in an extraordinary communion.

As Catholics, we seek to build, deepen and live that unity today, within the Catholic Church and with all Christians. Perhaps, the greatest stumbling block to proclaiming the Gospel is the disunity of its adherents. If we cannot live in harmony, peace and love with each other, why should anyone want to join us?

Sometimes, the church feels like a fractured collection of varying political parties with differing candidates, agendas and ideologies. Only by living in deep communion with Christ and fidelity to the church and her teachings, can we discover that profound unity for which Jesus prayed before his death.

The early Christians were courageous in their proclamation of Christ. They knew that the Gospel would not only upset the religious authorities in Israel but also the political authorities in Rome. If Jesus is the Lord and Messiah, then no one else is, not even the Roman emperor. Faith in Christ relativizes and subjects all human power, and there will always be people who will not like that.

The apostles did not fashion their message to the fancies of their audience. They proclaimed the truth of the Gospel, regardless of the consequences, whether they were praised and exalted for it or whether they were tortured and imprisoned. The courage of the early Christians in their conviction to die rather than deny their faith remarkably fueled the growth of the church.

Are we courageous in our embrace of the Catholic faith? Do we live and profess it whether we are revered or reviled for doing so?

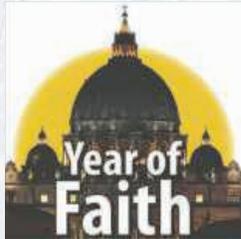

Can people see in us the amazing courage of Bartholomew and the serene steadfastness of Perpetua and Felicity? The witnessing power of one disciple of Christ who is willing to sacrifice leisure time, reputation, popularity, money, a job and even life itself for the sake of being faithful to Christ is extraordinary. The lives and deaths of Agnes, Polycarp, Thomas More and the martyrs of El Salvador never fail to stir my vision and inspire my faith.

The Holy Spirit made the apostles articulate in their profession of Christ and the faith. A motley band, composed mainly of uneducated fishermen, became philosophers and theologians who were able to express their religious experience in such a compelling fashion that thousands joined them.

In his conversation with the Ethiopian eunuch, Philip is able to explain the prophet Isaiah in the context of Jesus' passion and death. Paul unfolds the first theology of Christ and the church in his epistles. John and his followers articulate divine love as the source and center of Christianity. The early church succeeded so well because she could explain what she believed.

We will only evangelize effectively to the extent that we can do the same. Catechesis and adult formation are burning necessities for us if we hope to equip the average Catholic in the pew with such a fundamental grasp of the faith they can articulately witness to Christ and his church in a world that increasingly misunderstands and rejects the proposal of the Gospel.

We cannot afford to neglect the study of our Catholicism if we hope to bring others to belief. This need for religious formation is a key component of our archdiocesan effort to help parishes become dynamic centers of evangelizing activity. As we celebrate Pentecost this Sunday, may the Holy Spirit compel us to proclaim Christ wherever we find ourselves – in an office, a hospital bed, a restaurant, a gymnasium or a living room – by living in unity, believing with courage and professing with knowledge. The early Christians had no spiritual gifts that we ourselves have not received. Let's go set the world on fire for Christ!

From The Servant's Quarters

❖ We continue to experience the loss of Jerry Gnadt, one of our parish trustees. It is strange to no longer have him stop in the rectory weekly to sign checks, or to attend a Bible Study.

❖ Terri Weber did some research with the Archdiocese and learned that when a trustee is unable to finish his term the pastor is to appoint a replacement trustee.

❖ After consulting with a number of people in parish leadership, I've decided to ask Mike Wendelberger to complete Jerry's term.

As soon as the paperwork is back from the Archdiocese, Mike will trustee with our Swanson. Here's a information Mike

As soon as the paperwork is back from the Archdiocese, Mike will trustee with our Swanson. Here's a little background would like to share with you.

❖ Mike Wendelberger joined St. James 13 years ago. He enjoyed meeting new people and being with people he already knew. He joined the Communion Ministers, and also taught 4th grade Christian Formation. Mike is looking forward to becoming a trustee and being more involved with St. James. He is honored to finish the term of his "missed buddy," Jerry Gnadt. Mike and his wife, Diane, have three grown boys and they also enjoy riding their Harley.

❖ Some have asked me about the Creed we've been praying lately at Mass. Beside the option of using the renewal of Baptismal Promises, two other ways are given to renew our faith at Mass: The Nicene Creed and the Apostles Creed. When we first began using the new translation, we prayed the Nicene Creed. We decided that people might prefer the simpler version of the Apostles Creed, so we've been using that one lately. This is also the "new translation" of the Apostles Creed. Some have thought that we just went back to the old translation of the Nicene Creed. The Apostles Creed is actually older than the Nicene Creed. I hope you enjoy using this form of prayer for a while.

❖ On our way to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan last month we stopped for Sunday Mass at St. Mary Church in Peshtigo. In the pew I discovered a card entitled, "Celebrating Children at our Parish." Here are some highlights from that card.

❖ To the parents of our young children, may we suggest.....

❖ Relax! God put the wiggle in Children; do not feel you have to suppress it.

❖ Sit toward the front where it is easier to see and hear.

❖ Quietly explain the parts of the Mass.

❖ Sing the songs, pray, and say the responses. Children learn liturgical behavior by copying you.

❖ If you need to leave Mass with your child, feel free to do so, but please come back!

❖ Remember, that the way we welcome children in church directly affects the way they respond to the church, to God, and to Jesus the Christ. Let them know that they are at home in this liturgical gathering.

To the members of the parish... A smile of encouragement is a joy to parents with small, active children.

Fr. Mike & Comet

Should Faith and Politics Mix?

Does your Christian faith steer your thoughts and actions at home and at your work place? What about in society? As Christians we are called to see and respect the dignity of all people and to work for the common good, but what does that mean in today’s political environment? Do faith and politics mix?

Given the divisive political world we live in, it is easy to shut down in frustration rather than engage in the process; however, our Catholic faith tells us being passive is not an option. Faith and politics do mix when Christianity is at your core.

Join Fr. Chuck Schramm of St. Mary’s Hales Corners. Explore the Catholic spiritual foundation of politics and conscience formation. Experience a format of civil dialogue. As we realize God works through all people, we can learn new ways to listen to each other and to hear each others experience. We can move past polarization, beyond labels, toward active listening so we are more able to see today’s issues through God’s eyes.

Two Presentation/Dialogue Opportunities – Attend one or both. Sunday – Sept 30th/12 noon to 1:30 pm – civil dialogue topic: Care for the poor and budget priorities. Tuesday – Oct 2nd/6 to 7:30 pm -civil dialogue topic: Human dignity and healthcare issues Location: St. James Community Center. All are welcome to attend. Presented as part of the St. James GIFT program. Register with the CF office by Sunday, Sept. 23 at 262-253-2902 or beimbornm@archmil.org . For more information contact Debra Schneider/St. James Human Concerns at 414-550-2167 or djschneider@wir.rr.com

Fields of Hope and Dreams Community Gardens

Pam Dennis, our Parish Nurse, is helping people eat more nutritious fresh vegetables by delivering produce from our community gardens to people who can't get to the store or food pantry. Pam called and asked if she could pick some of the vegetables from our gardens after visiting a parish member from Willow Springs who could not get to the food pantry. Pam said that the resident's faces just "lit up" when she offered them fresh vegetables from our gardens. Not only are they fresh, big and beautiful in color but they have more flavor than store bought vegetables. I started to wonder "is that what happened to our missing beets?" but Pam convinced me otherwise. Our parish nurse Pam, or should we call her Robin Hood or Pea Pod delivery service, is recording what she picks from our gardens to take to homebound residents so we can include it in with our totals to get a proper accounting of how our gardens compare from year to year. It seems we got a "twofer" with Pam, not only does she help out with nursing duties but she's a part-time gardener too. We are so blessed at this parish because so many of our staff members wear multiple hats and perform duties above and beyond their regular duties. How about you? Want to get involved by joining our volunteers? Just call (414) 587-1202 or email: pschneider@wi.rr.com Thank you for your support of our community gardens and your dedication to the Cooperating Churches of Sussex's (CCOS food) pantry.

Costumes with multiple pieces should be packaged together, and all donations should be clean and ready for immediate use. Following the drive, SOS will distribute the costumes to local children through the Sussex food pantry.
